

Global ACL and knee ligament injury websites: A comprehensive directory

The ACL/knee injury digital landscape is dominated by major medical institutions rather than niche keyword domains, with only ~85 unique websites meeting the 10K+ monthly traffic threshold. Most high-traffic ACL content lives on general healthcare sites (Mayo Clinic, Cleveland Clinic, WebMD) rather than dedicated ACL-named domains. The market opportunity for specialized ACL domains remains largely untapped.

This directory catalogs all identifiable websites with ACL/knee ligament-related domains or significant ACL content meeting the 10,000+ monthly visits threshold, organized by category with available traffic, revenue, language, and geographic data.

Dedicated ACL/knee-keyword domains with verified traffic

These sites contain ACL or knee-related terms directly in their domain name—representing the core target of this research.

Key market insights and findings

The dedicated ACL domain gap

Only ~15 domains globally contain "ACL" or "knee" keywords AND meet the 10K+ traffic threshold. This represents a significant market opportunity for niche domain development. The most successful example is knee-pain-explained.com with 406,690 monthly visits Semrush ↗ from organic search. Semrush ↗

Traffic distribution patterns

- Academic medical centers dominate ACL content traffic (Mayo Clinic, Cleveland Clinic, HSS collectively receive 120M+ monthly visits)
- Digital PT platforms are the fastest-growing segment (Hinge Health at $323M revenue)
- E-commerce for knee products is fragmented with BraceAbility leading at 263K verified monthly sessions
- Non-English markets remain underserved, with Germany's Gesundheitsinformation.de being the only government health portal with major traffic

Revenue models across the ecosystem

- Digital PT platforms: Subscription-based ($323M for Hinge Health)
- PT clinic chains: Service-based ($1B+ for Upstream Rehabilitation)
- Equipment e-commerce: Product sales (~$3M for BraceAbility)
- Medical practices: Practice revenue ($500M+ for Rothman Orthopaedics)
- Educational sites: Advertising and affiliate revenue (~$5-10K for knee-pain-explained.com)

Conclusion

This comprehensive audit identified 85+ unique websites meeting the 10K+ monthly traffic requirement across the ACL/knee injury digital ecosystem. The market remains dominated by institutional medical sites rather than specialized keyword domains, suggesting opportunity for niche site development. The digital physical therapy segment shows the strongest growth trajectory, with platforms like Hinge Health achieving unicorn valuations through B2B employer/insurer models. For domain investors or entrepreneurs, the knee-pain-explained.com model (400K+ organic traffic through SEO-optimized educational content) represents the most successful approach for dedicated ACL/knee domain development.
